

RADIO

Clapp-Eastman Radio Sets complete with
Battery and Magnavox$205.00
Complete with Loud Talking Amplifier suitable for large halls and dances...$350.00
Installation charges $25.00.

Free concerts at 8 P. M.
MONDAY, WEDNESDAY, FRIDAY

LAMBETH-ARMFIELD, Inc.

Phone 228 Rockingham, N. C.

Exclusive Modes in

Lady Baltimore
HATS

INDIVIDUALITY, style and exceptional quality in materials and workmanship are the characteristics of every hat bearing the famous "Lady Baltimore" label. Leaders at the Baltimore Fashion Show "Lady Baltimore" Hats are the creations of the designers. Our showing of this season's new and most popular effects is inclusive.

E. B. Terry
Department Store

Your BEST FRIEND

according to the law of average is a dollar. We live according to the law of average—consequently, we live according to our dollars.

If you EARN what you can—SAVE what you can Saving makes independence, earning does not.

Let OUR BANK be your bookkeeper. We are an immediate associate in your business of progressing from the time you become a depositor in our institution.

Save and Have

The Bank of Rockingham

M. W. McRae President Dr. A. C. Everett, Vice-Pres
B. F. Reynolds, Cashier
Open till 6 o'clock P. M. on Saturdays.

COAL and WOOD
FOR SALE

Coal, Oak Blocks, Stove Wood
FOR CASH ONLY

Operatives Trading Company
Phone 75

LOCAL ITEMS AND PERSONALS

Matters Briefly Mentioned
Little Happenings
Personal Notes

CALL POST-DISPATCH OFFICE
Phone 182

Rham vs. Hamlet tomorrow.
Bennettsville Fair Nov. 1, 2, 3.
Phone Post-Dispatch 182, your items of news.

Sandhill Fair at Pinehurst November 7, 8, 9 and 10.

How about your label? See if a blue X mark is on the front page—and then renew.

Ellerbe plays Sanford at Sanford tomorrow (Friday) in University eliminations. Luck to you, Ellerbe.

Hamlet vs. Rockingham in championship game of football at new school grounds here tomorrow (Friday) at 3 o'clock.

Miss Dell Gibson left Wednesday for Thomasville, Ga., to spend the winter months with her sister, Mrs. Hobson Johnson.

S. W. Steele and Arch Biggs have been camping this week at the club at Ledbetter's, fishing and entertaining each other with topics of the day.

A. Cree, manager of Rose's 5, 10 & 25c store, has been in Henderson this week at Rose's wholesale house buying goods for his Rockingham store.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Coney Steele returned Tuesday night from Charlotte, whither they went Monday and had Dr. Matheson remove Mrs. Steele's tonsils.

Born, October 27th, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Mims at Rex Hospital, Raleigh, a son, Charles, Jr. Mrs. Mims, before her marriage, was Miss Elma Mae Collins.

Mrs. Jesse H. Page came here Sunday from Ansonville to remain until Christmas with her daughter, Mrs. S. W. Steele. Mrs. Page will be 84 years old next May 30th.

Henry Rainwaters began work Wednesday again with the Everett Hardware store. He worked there for two years, but left early in 1921 to try his hand at farming again.

Lambeth-Armfield this week installed a Clapp-Eastman radio outfit in the Fox drug store.

Miss Miriam Moore, of Dillon, will come here Friday night to spend several days with Miss Tenna Leak Ledbetter.

Mrs. C. S. Shoaf and daughter, Miss Georgia, of Charlotte, spent several days this week with Mrs. Shoaf's sister, Mrs. Minnie Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Stogner, who live six miles from St. Paul, spent today here. Mr. Stogner was for 8 years a U. S. deputy marshal here.

Misses Marie, Hallie and Caroline Covington, of this city, and Miss Mildred Bostian, of Albemarle, will leave here Sunday night for a ten days' trip to New York.

The midday Shooflys were put back on Wednesday, Nov. 1st. No. 34 passes here from Charlotte at 12:35 and No. 31 going to Charlotte at 1:03. A big shake-up in the Seaboard schedules will be made Nov. 12th.

T. C. Leak and his master of hounds, Clyde Chappell, left Sunday for Fayetteville to participate this week in the annual fox hunt of the Fox Association. He carried six of his dogs. There are a hundred sportsmen taking part in the chase, and 200 dogs. Carl Smith, by the way, has the honor of being master of hounds for the entire hunt.

Mrs. H. L. Guthrie and Mr. G. A. Patrick returned Saturday from a visit of three weeks to relatives in Columbus county. While away they took part in a deer hunt, in which a member of the party bagged one.

Major and Mrs. A. McCullen returned Monday night from Wilmington where they have been for three weeks with their daughter, Mrs. J. B. LeGwin, who has been ill from "break bone" fever. Mrs. LeGwin and young son returned with them for a visit.

Send your boy or girl the Post-Dispatch each week. Only $1.00 for six months.

Miss Ella Davis is visiting relatives at Thomasville, Ga.

The Sou. Bell this week distributed a new directory, corrected to Sept. 15th.

Born on Oct. 26th to Mr. and Mrs. Minor T. Hinson, a son, Minor Thurston, Junior.

A number of Rockingham folks attended the Barnum-Bailey-Ringling circus in Charlotte Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Johnson and his mother, Mrs. S. J. Johnson, of East Laurinburg, spent Tuesday here.

Steps are being initiated to the establishment of a golf course at the Carolina Country Club, near the Everett mill.

M. B. Howell, of Wadesboro, has bought a bloodhound of fine breeding. The animal is 5 years old and cost $300.

Miss Lula Little, of Little Rock, Arkansas, will arrive Friday night to spend two weeks with Mrs. W. B. Cole.

Wallace, the magician, at graded school tomorrow (Friday) night. Part of proceeds go to the athletic expenses.

Subject of sermon by Mr. Dallas at Presbyterian church Sunday will be: morning "Speaking for One's Self." Night, "If So, Why."

Services at Episcopal church Sunday morning, with celebration of Holy Communion. Subject of sermon will be "Overcoming Sorrows."

Mrs. W. T. Mullis was operated upon for appendicitis at the Charlotte Sanatorium on Oct. 25th by Dr. Brenizer. She will be able to return home by the middle of next week.

Major and Mrs. George Everett are spending today and Friday with Dr. and Mrs. A. C. Everett. Major Everett will retire from active service January 1st, and will likely make his home in Charlotte.

The Palmer Bible Class No. 2 will hereafter meet each Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. J. LeGrand Everett instead of at the Baptist church. The change is made on account of heating arrangements. The girls and ladies of the community are invited to attend these meetings at 7:30.

Mr. S. M. Crouch, Assistant Grand Secretary and State Treasurer for the Odd Fellows, is in Rockingham, and will probably remain here ten or twelve days longer. He is giving instruction to the Odd Fellows every night. All Odd Fellows should try to attend these lectures. Mr. Crouch is stopping at the Rockingham hotel.

"Under Hawaiian Skies" at The Garden theatre next Tuesday night; the Royal Serenaders of Hawaii will be an added attraction for this musical road show. Those who enjoy the dreamy Hawaiian melodies, mixed with jazz interpreted by real Hawaiians, will surely be pleased with this coming attraction. Reserved seats on sale at The Garden office, phone 308.

Breeden-Cloud.

Mrs. Obadiah Lewis Cloud invites you to be present at "Mimosa" Hamlet, North Carolina on Wednesday evening, November 15th at half after six o'clock to witness the marriage of her daughter Margaret Elizabeth to Mr. Robert King Breeden

33 Bu. Peanuts Acre.

Ephriam Ellerbe, colored, made 33 bushels of peanuts on one acre on the H. C. Watson river farm this year.

WANTED—Several hundred bushels good sound corn in 2-bushel bags. W. Ralph Smith.

WHO'S WHO

By MARTHA EATON

(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

John Wentworth was in confusion. For three months a widow with two charming daughters had occupied Rambler cottage, the grounds of which adjoined his estate. Conservative, nearing middle age, Wentworth was making his maiden voyage upon the sea of romance.

The daughters were twins, hence his confusion. Equally charming, they made equal appeal to his old-school chivalry. One girl was so identically the embodiment of the other that Wentworth became puzzled as to which he should offer marriage.

At last something happened which promised to aid him in his decision. In the late twilight, as he sauntered through his orchard, he saw a familiar figure hurrying along the footpath which led from Rambler cottage across the meadow skirting the lower orchard. It was one of the twins, carrying a basket of "goodies" to lame Mrs. Brode. Thereafter Wentworth strolled in the orchard every evening, and every evening a familiar figure hurried across the meadow with a laden basket.

Wentworth let his decision fall upon this twin, thoughtful and unselfish, doing errands of mercy in the dim of twilight. She was the girl for him; but the question arose as to which of the two she was. Not such a simple matter to learn as it had first appeared to be.

On two evenings Wentworth intercepted Miss Twin in the pathway. On the first evening he said: "Good evening, Miss Lucile," to which she replied: "Good evening, Mr. Wentworth." On the second evening he said: "Good evening, Miss Louise," to which the young lady replied: "Good evening, Mr. Wentworth."

Was it Miss Lucile one evening and Miss Louise the next, or was it Miss Lucile every evening, or Miss Louise every evening?

"She doesn't wish to be considered more praiseworthy than her sister." On the day following the sixth evening, Wentworth called on Mrs. Brode. "Blessed if I know whether she's Miss Lucile or Miss Louise. I only know she is an angel. I asked her once which one she was, and she said: 'Oh, never mind, Mother Brode, I'm just Miss Rambler,' so, you see, I can't tell you, Mr. Wentworth."

On the seventh evening Wentworth called at Rambler cottage at about the time when he thought Miss Twin would be on her mission. He was received by Miss Lucile and her mother only. So the matter was settled at last: tomorrow he would seek the hand of Miss Louise, the little kind-hearted masquerader. But no, in a very few moments Miss Louise appeared too, and both girls vied to give him a pleasant evening.

John Wentworth was still in confusion.

On the eighth evening Wentworth, near desperation, again paced in his orchard and again saw the familiar figure skipping across the meadow. The girl glanced in his direction and then went on so hastily that her sunbonnet was caught in a low-hanging bough. Wentworth saw her disentangle a strand of hair. After she had been some time gone Wentworth went to the offending bough and broke a twig which was bound with hair.

He now held the solution of his difficulty securely in his hand. Tomorrow's sunlight would tell the tale. Miss Lucile's hair was brown and was lighted with gold by the sun; Miss Louise's hair was brown also, but untouched by gold.

Alas! morning brought frustration. The sun shone bright, to be sure. It lingered on the hair-engirdled twig in Wentworth's hand; but the hair was neither gold nor brown. It was red, red, RED.

Wentworth worked on a mental problem during that morning, and later went to Mrs. Brode's cottage. From questioning her he was able to arrive at a pretty definite conclusion regarding the owner of the red hair. He learned that the widow was in straitened circumstances, and that she kept but one servant, a cook, who was tidy, quiet and never went out.

On the ninth evening, rather late, Wentworth walked back and forth by Rambler cottage and saw through unshuttered windows the widow, the twins and a red-haired girl. By and by he rang the widow's doorbell. The twins greeted him effusively, while their mother, in evident confusion, presented him to her of the auburn hair. "My daughter, Lois. She has just come from Detroit."

Wentworth spent a wonderful evening, eating delicious little cakes which the twins served, and watching red-haired Lois. Yes, he could readily see how one of her unselfish nature might easily be persuaded to stay in the kitchen and cook, so that the more attractive sisters might keep up appearances and secure a wealthy husband. Lois' merry eyes were on him and he ate the last cake.

"Mrs. Rambler, I have loved one of your daughters for a long time," Wentworth's eyes glanced upon Lucile and Louise. Both young ladies were rosy and expectant, and more so when Wentworth continued:

"Now I am going to take my right and I am here."

Football Results.

The various football clashes last Saturday resulted as follows: University of North Carolina 27, University of Maryland 3. Carolina plays Tulane University at New Orleans this coming Saturday.

V. M. I. 12, State College 0. State and Davidson will play at Raleigh Saturday.

Trinity 12, Davidson 0. Elon 10, Erskine 0.

Farm for Rent.

For rent, my 3-horse farm; 5-room house and outbuildings. Also, have for sale a dozen Berkshire and Poland China Pigs. See C. P. Dawkins, Route 3.

Monday and Tuesday
Nov. 6th & 7th

AT THE

STAR

Theatre

Rodolph Valentino

and

Lila Lee

in

"Blood and Sand"

RODOLPH VALENTINO

Matinee at 2:30,
Continuous run until 11 p. m.
Admission 10 and 25c.

Our Advertising Service

Means More Sales for You, Mr. Business Man

When you begin advertising in this paper you start on the road to more business. There is no better or cheaper medium for reaching the buyers of U. S. community.

We can also provide Artistic Printing
of every description.

Do You Need Any JOB PRINTING Today?

If So, Send or Phone
Us Your Order NOW

If you believe in home
trade—in a home newspaper
—in boosting your town—
advertise in this paper

We can also do your job
work quickly and satisfactorily